

Translations: Visual location of defects on optical fiber/12/en

The end of an optical link is detected by the presence of the light signal. This is a function widely used for mixing garters in street cabinets or bays.